A Story of Alexandre Dumas. This story is told of Alexandre Du-mas: It is well known that he could not refuse a request-at least not often. One day he gave a man a letter to one of his intimate friends in Brussels. The friend, a wealthy merchant, received him as though he had been Dumas' own brother, introduced him to his circle of acquaintances, placed his stable at the man's disposal and did everything in his power to make life pleasant for Dumas' friend. After lapse of fourteen days the man denly disappeared and with him best horse in the merchant's stable. Six months later the merchant visited Dumas and thanked him for the kind of people he recommended to his consideration. "Dear friend," he added, "your friend is a shark. He stole the best horse in my stable." Astonished,

Dumas raised his hands toward heaven and cried, "What, he stole from you

Mazeppa and the Cossucks. The word cossack means robber, and the name Cossacks was given by the Turks to a race in manners, appearance and language like the Russians who are said not to be really akin to them. The Cossacks of Little Russia and the Don Cossacks are said to be the most unscrupulous robbers in the world. They excel in horsemanship and form a large part of the Russian imperial cavalry. Styled sometimes imperial cavalry. Styled sometimes the sples of the czar, they keep the nihilists in greater check than any other power and number many more than a million men. Mazeppa, a Don Cossack, the subject of Byron's poem, when condemned to be bound upon a wild horse and borne away to his fate. was carried toward the Ukraine, on the borders of Poland, and, being rescued by Cossacks, became their chief.

Violet For Mourning. . It was not by accident that violet was chosen by many nations as the exclusive color for mourning and by us also for half mourning. Painters suffering from hysteria and neurasthenia will be inclined to cover their pictures uniformly with the color most in accordance with their condition of lassitude and exhaustion. Thus originate the violet pictures of Manet and his school, which spring from no actually observable aspect of nature, but from subjective view due to conditions of the nerves. When the entire surface of walls in saions and art exhibitions of the day appears veiled in uniform haif mourning this predilection for violet is simply an expression of the nervous debility of the painter.-Nordau's "Degeneration."

A Broad Hint.

Sir Andrew Agnew of Lucknow, a well known Scotch baronet, was long pestered by an impudent sort of peron, who insisted on being constantly "underfoot." Finally, however, he dropped off, and Sir Andrew was asked how he got rid of him. "Oh," said he, "I gave him a broad

"By ma saul," said Sir Andrew, "he was obleeged to tak' it! For as the chiel wadna gang oot at the door I just threw him oot of the window."

Alr Pressure.

At the level of the sea the pressure of the atmosphere on the piston of an engine is about fifteen pounds to the square inch, but decreases at higher As this atmospheric pressure must be overcome by the steam pressure before any work can be done, pressure of high altitudes more work can be obtained from a given pressure of steam than at the sea level, or, in other words, an equally effective pressure of steam can be obtained with the expenditure of less fuel. The difference, however, is not great enough to be of any practical importance.

Bounty For Scalps.

During the French-Indian war of 1754 the French offered a bounty for British scalps. In the same year a bounty of £100 each was offered by the authorities of the several colonies. In 1755 Massachusetts granted a bounty of £40 for every scalp of a male Indian over twelve years of age and £20 each for the scalps of women and children. In 1764 John Penn, grandson of Wil-Ham Penn and governor of Pennsylvania, offered a bounty of $150 for every "Indian buck" killed and scalped.

The Conditions Different.

Husband (with newspaper)-Whea I'm at home you are forever hammering at that plane or else your tongue is running like a trip hammer. It wasn't so before we were married. Wife-No, it wasn't. Before we were married you held my hands so I couldn't play and kept my lips so busy that I Unconsciousness.

"She's the most unconscious girl I ever saw."

"Well, why shouldn't she be? She's pretty and knows it; she's clever and knows it, and she's good and knows it. What has she to be conscious of?"-

A cheerful manner makes an important wireless connection with the heart of a prospective customer and trans-mits an irresistible call for business.-Success Magazine.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY .-

When the shower came up the artist, who was walking through New Hampshire on a sketching tour, sought shelter under a tree, where he was soon joined by another wayfarer, a man of middle age, who looked a sort of better class tramp, and indeed was one.

The two entered into conversation, and it came out that the wayfarer was a harness maker by vocation, but a rover by predilection.

"Yes," he said, "I'm a rolling stone, I'm never happy in one place. I'm here today and gone tomorrow. There ain't any fossil about me. I'm on the move all the time. The world is made to see, I say, and I'm bound to see all I

Cold That Kills and Cold That Cures. In England severe cold generally kills a good many people. In certain parts of North America cold still more severe puts new life into them. It requires no argumentation to show that here must be a definite reason for this. The chief reason is that English cold is mostly damp, while in North America it is mostly dry. There is the greatest difference in the world between air and damp air. The former is usually air pure and simple, possessing a full quantity of oxygen and often charged highly with ozone. The latter consists of air mixed with the vapor of water. When the former air, fully oxygenated, is breathed it stimulates more powerfully than chamnagne. The latter, less oxygenated and charged with vapor of water, not only does no stimulate, but depresses,-Public Opin-

Pasta's Wonderful Voice.

Mme. Pasta's voice extended from ow A to D in altissimo and was one of the most remarkable illustrations ever furnished of the value of musical culture in overcoming natural blem ishes. Her voice was stubborn and unmanageable, but by dint of study and indefatigable perseverance she brought it to a state of perfection that was the admiration of her contemporaries. Her delight was the bravura style of ornament, and where the composer had not been sufficiently liberal in bestowing rnamentation on her part she invented cavatinas of her own and used them with such effect that they were gener ally regarded as the best part of her singing. She made her first appear ance on the stage in 1015, her last in

The Meaning of Sympathy.

It was a clever Frenchwoman who said: "Those who have suffered much are like those who know many languages. They have learned to understand and to be understood by many. It is an impossibility to fully sympathize with another's experience unles it has been at some time one's own In trouble or grief we turn instinctive ly to some one whom we know has been through the same experience. It is the old human longing for companlonship that shows itself. The feeling is strong within us that she will feel and know with me. Therein lies the meaning of sympathy."

The Minister's Response.

A well known minister of a kirk in Glasgow was one day passing along the High street when he was accosted by a crowd of street gamins, one of whom said mischievously, but with beno immediate response, but on the whole crew reiterating the cry, "The de'll's deed! The de'll's deed!" he turned and, raising his outstretched hands, as if to pronounce a blessing, reported, "Ach, ye puir leetle faithless

Many of the curiosity shops planted in the back streets of most country towns in England are simply kept up by large London firms, who, from a prolonged study of human nature, have discovered that people who are shy of buying old furniture or old silver in Bond street or Piccadilly are ready and eager purchasers of precisely the same objects at a rather higher price when they come upon them in the back streets of a country town.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Elec-tion to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoris St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my hrost and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next coming gravity, "D'ye ken, minister, the de'il is deed?" The minister made subsided. I took several does that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council." This remedy is for sale by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. The Breath of Life.

The Breath of Life.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. I like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams, O. has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. Oh, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an automizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislotged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to cure.
